Is Minneapolis merely an urban version of Lake Wobegon? Are the Twin Cities a "cold Omaha" or do they surpass it as one of the world's major centers of creativity? What are the strengths, weaknesses, opportunities and threats facing Minnesota's alternative futures as a "state of innovation?" How are these futures influenced by national and global trends and potentials? What are the roles of social, cultural, and psychological "framers" in asking and answering these questions? Explore and discover Minnesota's alternative futures as engines of innovation - or their opposites. Help create new and improved ways of "talking Minnesota" about Minnesota as a present and future "state of innovation." Analyze and apply IBM's "Smarter Planet" approach to Minnesota's innovation futures. Is Minneapolis merely an urban version of Lake Wobegon? Are the Twin Cities a "cold Omaha" or do they surpass it as one of the world's major centers of creativity? What are the strengths, weaknesses, opportunities and threats facing Minnesota's alternative futures as a "state of innovation?" How are these futures influenced by national and global trends and potentials? What are the roles of social, cultural, and psychological "framers" in asking and answering these questions? Explore and discover Minnesota's alternative futures as engines of innovation - or their opposites. Help create new and improved ways of "talking Minnesota" about Minnesota as a present and future "state of innovation." Analyze and apply IBM's "Smarter Planet" approach to Minnesota's innovation futures.
